Midterm Review: Soc 200, Spring 2020

Your midterm exam will be available during class on March 5th, 2020. As soon as you open the exam, you will only have 120 minutes to complete it. This will be more than enough time but you will not be able to come back to your exam once you close out of Canvas, so please set aside enough time to complete your test in one session. The exam will consist of true/false, multiple choice questions, and two essay questions. The best way to prepare for the exam is to attend the review in class and to go back and review key terms as presented in class through Prezi presentations and discussions. Please note that although potential answers do not have letters next to them. That is, the first potential answer after a question represents (a), the second (b), the third (c), and the fourth (d).

Terms to pay attention to:
- Critical Global Citizenship
- Elements necessary for a successful social movement (DeFronzo)
- The conquest of the Americas (Zinn)
  - Encomienda system
  - Justifications of conquest
  - Cultural consequences of conquest
  - Bartolomé de Las Casas
  - Power structures in the Americas
- British colonies in the Americas (Zinn)
  - Encroachment
  - Purpose of colonies for crown v for local elites
  - Early social fractures and class divisions in colonies
  - Slavery and slave trade in colonies
  - Investors in early colonies
- US Independence (Zinn)
  - Bacon's rebellion
  - Ostensive reason for independence
  - Underlying class justifications for independence
  - Nation-states and their distinguishing factors
- Manifest destiny and US expansion toward present day California (Zinn)
  - Mexican-American War
- Cuban Revolution (DeFronzo)
  - Fidel Castro
  - Ernesto "Che" Guevara
  - Connection to Spanish-American War
  - General Batista
  - Purpose of revolution
  - La Sierra Maestra
  - Chevolution documentary
- Nicaraguan Revolution (DeFronzo)
  - US history in Nicaragua
  - Sandinistas and the FSLN
  - Carlos Fonseca, Daniel Ortega
  - Purpose of the revolution