Final Exam Soc 201
Spring 2014
Waddell

At the beginning of the semester I instructed you to read over a link on my website titled, "Tips for being a successful student." In this brief list of suggestions I encouraged each of you to keep your long-term goals in mind as you move forward with your education here at ASU. With this in mind, for your final exam I would like you to write a two-page, single-spaced essay outlining your current and future goals. Specifically, address the following components:

- Your immediate goals as a college student
- Your long-term goals as a professional
- Your success thus far in the pursuit of your goals
- Your failures thus far in the pursuit of your goals
- An outline or roadmap explaining specifically how you intend to achieve your goals. (Include a timeline.)

In addressing the aforementioned points the only firm requirement is honesty. Remember, this exercise is for you, not me. For the purpose of this final exam you will be graded on your ability to clearly convey your goals but in the long run you will be graded by your ability to carry them out in practice. Good luck!

Final Exam Due: Friday, May 9th by 5:00pm in MCD 386. (You may turn in your assignment anytime prior to this date as well.)
