

SOCIOLOGY 370: Poverty and Social Inequality

Course Description and Objectives:

The main objective of this course is to introduce students to a variety of analytical approaches to the study of inequality and poverty. Students will leave the course with a better understanding of the channels through which resources are distributed within and across societies, and in turn, how this distribution process affects distinct groups. With that end in mind, the course will introduce students to the study of inequality and poverty in the United States (U.S.) as well as several case studies from around the world. Through readings and lectures students will be introduced to issues associated with poverty and inequality, including: the legacy of colonialism, unemployment, crime, pollution, discrimination, migration, etc.

Student Learning Outcomes:

1. Examine major areas of theory, research, social policy and practice which impact on social class issues
2. Analyze how poverty, inequality, and social class are defined
3. Assess the extent, and types, of poverty and inequality
4. Describe the effects of race, ethnicity, gender, and social class on inequality and poverty
5. Examine the structural influences on poverty, inequality, and social class compared to the traditional person-blame explanations
6. Analyze the systems of domination, hierarchy, power, and privilege embedded in fundamental American institutions
7. Develop effective writing skills.

Assignments/Exams

Stock Market Investment/Reflection (10%): At the beginning of the semester students will make a pseudo-investment in the stock market. Each student will invest $100,000 in the market. Further instructions will be given for this assignment the first week of class and will subsequently be available on the course website.

Quizzes (20%): Four unannounced quizzes will be administered throughout the semester. Quizzes will address material covered in the previous three class periods plus the material assigned for that particular day.

Exams (30%): Students will take two exams throughout the semester, each worth 15% of their final grade. Exam questions will mainly test students' knowledge of key concepts from the assigned readings but they will also include questions based on supplemental information provided in the classroom discussions and lectures. The mid-term will be held in class on 10/07. The midterm exam will include multiple-choice questions, short essay questions, and a map quiz on the Americas and Asia. The final exam will include multiple-choice questions, short essay questions, and a map quiz on Africa, Europe and Australia. I recommend students start studying now for geography section of the exam. Student may study however they best see fit but I recommend using freerice.com, which will contribute to the World Food Programme (<http://freerice.com/category>). As you study, remember what Mark Twain once wrote, "God created war so that Americans would learn geography." So, let's make a pledge to end war together by learning geography!

Participation (10%): Poverty and inequality are social issues that permeate our daily lives. As a result, most Thursdays (9 in all, specific dates highlighted below) I expect students to come to class prepared to discuss and analyze a particular newspaper article through the lens of the particular concept that we are discussing that week (i.e., colonialism, poverty, inequality, etc). For this assignment I expect students to: (1) regularly read The New York Times as well as other professional news source such as The Economist, The Los Angeles Times, The BBC, etc., (2) each week choose an article that fits with the core theme for the class that week, (3) print the article and read it, and (4) type up several discussion questions for the class to consider. In class I will expect each student to be prepared to provide a brief review of his/her article and then we will all discuss the student generated discussion questions. At the end of class students will turn in their articles along with their discussion questions (be sure to write your name on your article!).

Note: This class will include both lecture and discussion. For this reason it is expected that students read the assigned material before class so that they can actively participate in classroom discussions. It should go without saying but active participation requires students to be present in the classroom. If a student misses an extensive amount of class (more than 3 classes), his/her overall grade for the course will drop by one letter grade (from A to B, B to C, etc.) for each absence beyond 3. Please note, anyone that arrives to class more than 5 minutes late is considered absent for that particular class period.

Final Essay (20%): For your final paper you are to write an 8 page essay (not including the bibliography) concerning poverty and inequality in the home country that you picked for the stock market challenge. Details concerning the report will be given to students as the semester progresses. (Additional information is available on course website.)

Final Presentation (10%): At the end of the semester students will present the main findings from their final essay to the rest of the class. Students may present their work in the way that they are most comfortable so as long as the presentation clearly and concisely conveys their work to the rest of the class.

Extra Credit: For each essay, if you utilize the writing lab I will increase your final grade, for that particular assignment, by 5 percent (you will need to provide edited drafts with your final essay). This includes write-ups and reflections.

Persons with Disabilities: If you have any sort of disability or personal problem that prevents the fullest expression of your abilities please let me know as soon as possible during the semester—before it interferes with your work—so that I can make a reasonable accommodation to your needs.

Academic Misconduct: Taking the easy way out will have real consequences in this class (check out turnitin.com). Plagiarism, cheating, or any other form of academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. Any student engaging in academic dishonesty will be dropped from the course and formal charges will be brought before the Department Chair.
